1. Introduction

In the event of a critical incident, Australian City International College (ACIC) recognizes that appropriate infrastructure must be in place to ensure the provision of all necessary support services. This document outlines ACIC policy, support mechanisms and procedures for managing a critical incident. This policy will ensure that ACIC has:

- An effective approach in responding to critical incidents as they occur;
- Appropriate support and counseling services available to those affected;
- Appropriate training and information resources provided to staff.

Under Standard 6 of the National Code 2007, Student Support Services, Registered Providers must support students to adjust to study and life in Australia, to achieve their learning goals and to achieve satisfactory academic progress towards meeting the learning outcomes of the course.

The intention of Standard 6 is to ensure that appropriate support services are available to international students to ease the transition into life and study in Australia and allow access to appropriate assistance for the student as needed. In addition, Registered Providers must support students to adjust to study and life in Australia, to achieve their learning goals and to achieve satisfactory academic progress.

Under Standard 6.4 the registered provider must have a documented critical incident policy together with procedures that covers the action to be taken in the event of a critical incident, required follow-up to the incident, and records of the incident and action taken.

2. Principles

ACIC recognises the duty of care owed to its students and that planning for the management of a critical incident is essential.

3. Definition

A critical incident is defined by the National Code as 'a traumatic event, or the threat of such (within or outside Australia), which causes extreme stress, fear or injury'.

Critical incidents are not limited to, but could include:

- missing students;
- severe verbal or psychological aggression;
- death, serious injury or any threat of these;

- natural disaster; and
- issues such as domestic violence, sexual assault, drug or alcohol abuse.

Non-life-threatening events could still qualify as critical incidents.

4. Critical Incident Team

When a critical incident occurs, the Chief Executive Officer Naresh Thapa, P: 0457 714 820, E: ceo@acicollege.edu.au will call a meeting with the appropriate staff to form a Critical Incident Team.

The Critical Incident Team is responsible for:

- assessing risks and response actions
- liaison with emergency and other services
- contact with students' relatives and other appropriate contacts
- liaison with other external bodies, such as homestays, carers or foreign embassies, and
- counseling and managing students and staff not directly involved in the incident.

5. Action Plan

The Critical Incident Team will set in motion a critical incident action plan to manage various aspects arising from the incident, including communication strategies. This will include

- creating and disseminating a plan and its procedures
- a review of the plan, and
- staff development and training.

6. Media Management

A media management process will be included in the management plan to ensure the most positive and supportive response from the media.

7. Reporting and recording of incident and action taken

The Educational Services for Overseas Students Act 2000 (ESOS Act) requires ACIC to notify the Police and Department of Immigration and Border Protection as soon as practical after the incident and the parents of the student, if appropriate. In the case of a student's death or other absence affecting the student's attendance, the incident will need to be reported via the Provider Registration and International Student Management System (PRISMS). All aspects of the incident and its management will be recorded on the student files.

8. Follow-up and evaluation

ACIC staff will be made aware of the critical incident policy and procedures and be given appropriate training to ensure the duty of care for international students is uppermost in their minds. This will occur at induction and where necessary through additional training sessions organised by the Principal Executive Officer, Principal or Student Services Manager.

A review and evaluation of the response to the critical incident will be conducted and the procedures reviewed by the Critical Incident Team and as appropriate, other stakeholders.

9. Resources

Changes to the policy and procedures, including updating resources, will be made as soon as practicable following the review and evaluation and will be provided by email notification by the Principal Executive Officer or Principal and via scheduled Monthly Meetings.

CRITICAL INCIDENT PROCEDURES

The ACIC Critical Incident procedures detailed below include:

- Reporting and recording
- Flow chart and detailed action plan sample
- Evaluation and review checklist
- Staff training
- Resources and local links

Appendices A - F provide additional information and samples for the following:

- Staff training – things to remember
- Media hints
- Sample letters to parents
- Police involvement
- Death and funerals in Australia
- Other resources including a sample management plan

Any action taken in regard to a critical incident will be recorded to include outcomes or evidence if the incident is referred to another person or agency.

When an international student dies or other critical events involving students occur, ACIC of necessity, will take on many of the tasks which would normally be dealt with by the family of the victim were the incident to have occurred in the student's home country.

ACIC has in place efficient, sensitive and supportive strategies for dealing with a critical incident and provides support to members of staff, students and others in the community who are involved.

ACIC critical incident policy and procedures are cognizant of information privacy principles as referred to at <http://www.privacy.gov.au/publications/index.html#G>

REPORTING

The Educational Services for Overseas Students Act 2000 (ESOS Act) requires ACIC to notify the Police and Department of Immigration and Border Protection as soon as practical after the incident and the parents of the student, if appropriate.

In the case of a student's death or other absence affecting the student's attendance, the incident will need to be reported via the Provider Registration and International Student Management System (PRISMS).

When an international student dies or sustains serious injury, ACIC may be required to assist the student's family. This may include:

- hiring interpreters
- making arrangements for hospital/funeral/memorial service/repatriation
- obtaining a death certificate
- assisting with personal items and affairs including insurance issues
- assisting with visa issues

In addition, the following need to be notified

- Homestay or accommodation provider
- Library
- Information Technology Services

On-campus Incidents

If the incident is on campus, the first action will be to contact the emergency services - fire, ambulance or police – as would be the case with other WHS matter. The Chief Executive Officer (Naresh Thapa, P: 0457 714 820, E: ceo@aciccollege.edu.au) must also be contacted immediately when the incident involves death, serious injury or a threat to life or property.

Off-campus Incidents

If the critical incident involves a student or staff member and is off-campus, the person receiving the information must immediately contact the Principal (Naresh Thapa, P: 0457 714 820, E: (ceo@aciccollege.edu.au) or Student Service Officer (Saurab Shah, P: 0420906659, E: info@aciccollege.edu.au) who will communicate with other staff as appropriate.

Key Details to Be Reported

Key details to report include the time, location and nature of the incident (e.g. threat, accident, death or injury), names and roles of persons involved (e.g. staff, international or domestic student).

The staff member receiving the news contacts the Chief Executive Officer (Naresh Thapa).

The Chief Executive Officer (Naresh Thapa) urgently deals with the emergency situation then calls a meeting with the staff involved to make decisions as to how to proceed. The staff most likely to be present will be:

- Chief Executive Officer (Naresh Thapa)
- Student Services Manager (Pratikshya Shrestha)

- Academic Manager (Mamta Joshi)
- Student Support Officer (Saurab Shah)
- Compliance Manager
- Other key stakeholders (e.g. Department Managers, Trainers)

THE CRITICAL INCIDENT TEAM

At the initial meeting, the task of the group is to:

- create for themselves a clear understanding of the known facts.
- plan an immediate response.
- plan ongoing strategies.
- allocate individual roles/responsibilities for ongoing tasks.

Immediate response

Issues to be considered:

1. Contact with next of kin/significant others - what is the most appropriate manner of contact?

7. Identification of those students and staff members most closely involved and therefore most at risk.
 - Those directly involved
 - Personal friends/family of those involved
 - Others who have experienced a similar past trauma
 - Other students, staff, supervisors etc.
8. Arrange a time and place for an initial group/individual debriefing session with Counselor/s.

In this session, an opportunity is given to share the impact of the event, discuss various interpretations of the event in cultural/ethnic terms, the resulting sense of vulnerability, the experience of painful emotions and the normalisation of reactions.

9. Organise a tasks timetable for the next hour/s, day/s etc.
10. Plan ongoing feedback and regular meetings so that the coordinating team is continually in touch and working together.
11. Confirm access to emergency funds if necessary.

NOTE the Student Services Manager is responsible for all meetings to keep records of content and decisions.

APPENDIX A

STAFF TRAINING: THINGS TO REMEMBER

- 1. In the event of any critical incident, the first thing to do is calm the affected party/parties down and offer hope.

Communicate simply, take control and give clear and practical directions in order to reduce the anxiety and connect the logic of the affected party/parties

- 2. You are not superhuman.

Managing a critical incident can be a very lonely time, especially if you are regarded as the focal link with international students at your institution. While you are busy providing care or support to those directly affected by the incident, your own health and emotional well-being may be at risk. Self-care should NOT be forgotten in your management strategy.

- 3. Take time out each day to telephone or e-mail another colleague

This will give you not only a chance to debrief, but also to compare notes with sympathetic colleagues who have had similar experiences and a real understanding of what you are feeling. You are helping others while you help yourself.

4. Update the resources as necessary

Insert as many local telephone numbers and contacts, and as much information as you can so that you can refer to the resources thereby allowing you to take effective and immediate action when necessary.

WHO ARE YOU?

As a ACIC staff member, you are a person who interacts with International Students in a professional capacity.

You are most likely working in one or a range of the roles as listed below:

- Principal Executive Officer
- Principal
- Compliance Manager
- Director of Studies
- Marketing and Admissions Manager
- Accounts Manager
- Marketing and Admissions Officer
- Student Services Manager
- Student Services Officer
- Welfare Officer
- IT Personnel
- Academic Staff
- Receptionist

You may be one of the first people notified in the event of a Critical Incident.

Ultimately, you are a concerned, caring, informed, capable, 'significant other' in the life of the international student. His or her own family structure will be unavailable, so assume that you will be helpful and a positive influence, in spite of your 'outsider' role. You, as an individual, will be more readily accepted than you as the Teacher or You as the Welfare Officer, or You as the Student Services Officer.

Optimise your own personal traits. Remember that it is more than likely that the international student has sought you out because of who you are, not what you are. So, follow your instincts and act accordingly.

Preparing yourself

How does one prepare for dealing with a critical incident in a cross-cultural setting?

The attitude you assume is of the utmost significance:

- Expect the unexpected. Not everything occurs between 9am and 5pm.
- Do not be easily upset or disturbed by even the most extreme situations.
- Convey empathy and respect for the emotions of those involved.

- Worry and fear should not be conveyed to the person.
- Provide a sense of stability and strength.
- Be able to alleviate tension and anxiety.
- LISTEN - to what is said.
- LISTEN - to what is not said.
- Create a personal equilibrium between your own values and those of a different value system but keep the values of the client foremost in your mind.
- There will be times when you are unavailable. Don't be consumed by guilt. As long as policy and procedures are in place, there will be someone else who can step in and fulfill the required role.
- Network with ethnic groups in the local community. Keep a list of useful contacts that may be able to assist in matters not directly related to the ACIC: religious customs, family support, interpreters, embassy, or consulate contacts.
- It is not always important to remain within the specific religious affiliation to receive help in an emergency situation. Helping, coping, counseling skills are not religiously oriented...sensitivity is common to all members of the clergy. Keep this in mind when seeking assistance.
- Learn as much as you can from foreign nationals about how they would deal with specific scenarios - Ask questions:

“How should the body of a Muslim car accident victim be handled when the Coroner demands an autopsy and religious custom prohibits?”

“How does one act at a Chinese Buddhist funeral service? What is the proper way to express condolences?”

“How is mental illness regarded in your country?”

“What is the attitude toward rape in your country?”

The idea is to gain knowledge in advance, whenever possible.

Keep in contact with support networks like ISANA. Whether by telephone or e-mail, there will always be someone available to use as a sounding board.

Preparing Others

Many staff respond that they are not qualified to handle international students in crisis. Eradicate this 'us and them' attitude by engendering team- work among staff with regard to assisting international students. Let them know that they can be of invaluable assistance in a crisis by offering short-term training and workshops.

Establish and maintain your own network of ‘contacts’. Try to include as wide a variety of types and levels of staff as possible.

Keep in regular contact whether formally or informally, as these contacts will be your most reliable allies at a moment’s notice.

Conduct training regarding the Critical Incidents Policy for International Students. It is important for staff to be aware of the existence of such a policy.

Conduct a resource workshop to locate all relevant community resources in your immediate local area: Funeral CEOs, Police and Medical Authorities, Religious Leaders, Ethnic Group Leaders, Media Representatives, Insurance Representatives, local Embassy or Consular representatives.

Coordinate and conduct a Mock Exercise to simulate a Critical Incident. Have the exercised observed and assessed by an outside party.

Follow up with a debriefing and feedback session, inviting Counselors to educate participants about Stress Management, Post Traumatic Stress and general counseling principles when dealing international students.

Conduct general Cross Cultural Awareness training at regular intervals.

APPENDIX C

MEDIA HINTS

In many cases, the institution would prefer not to issue a press release upon the death of an international student. However, in anticipation of some requests for comment from the media, it is advisable to have a press release drafted by Media staff just in case.

Listed below are some helpful hints, which can be used and applied within the role of the Coordinating Team:

1. "No Comment" = Not a good idea.
2. A good press release should answer the following questions:
Why? What? How? When? Where?
3. Add a joint statement from the Principal Executive Officer and the Student Committee (or from staff representatives with a student support focus) which will signify unity and dissuade the press from looking for an 'alternative angle' on the story. The statement should include an expression of surprise and sadness at the tragedy, as well as compassion for the family of the victim.
4. A comment should be included explaining ACIC policy on responding to this kind of situation. In addition, if the situation warrants, it would be appropriate to comment on what measures will be put in place to ensure that any future events of this nature are avoided.
5. A telephone contact for further information is always left at the bottom of a press release. The Critical Incident Team should determine who will be responsible for media inquiries, and all staff should be alerted to the procedure for directing media inquiries to this person.

Sample media release

A sponsored male student from Botswana, 31, has died at,
....., in metropolitan Queensland.

The Principal Executive Officer,, said the incident had saddened ACIC staff, its student body, and the international student community.

"We are all dispirited at the loss of a very promising young man. Our profound condolences go to his family", said.

A memorial service staged at ACIC yesterday was attended by more than people, including academic staff, International Student Support staff, family, friends, and classmates

NOTE: The release is short and to the point. It depicts the ACIC as a caring institution, a position reinforced by the fact that the memorial service was held on the ACIC's own grounds.

Note that the release was issued after the memorial service, to avoid the likelihood of media coverage at the service itself. The cause of death has been revealed, because of the young age of the deceased.

Should media investigate further, it is suggested that the PEO respond with a statement saying simply, “We are sure you will understand that we are not prepared to discuss any of the personal issues which may have been associated with this young man’s death. It has always been our policy to respect the privacy of our students and their families.”

Managing the media

Each critical incident is unique and the dynamics of each situation will have to be assessed when it occurs. It is important that a structured approach to media management is developed and is included in the management plan to ensure the most positive and supportive response from the media.

Take the media calls

The PEO or nominated person should handle the initial media calls. Be sure to return media calls as soon as possible.

It is important that the department has an input in media coverage so that the story is balanced. Therefore, avoid answering questions with "no comment". Respond to questions accurately, however it may be necessary to explain to the media that you are unable to answer their questions at this time because i) of the sensitive nature of the issue or ii) you do not have the information available. It may be necessary to check with the police, ambulance or fire brigade etc, before making a statement.

Response time is important

Officers likely to be contacted by the media need to be alerted immediately and kept informed as more details come to light. Inform reception as soon as possible that the incident has occurred, even if the details are unclear. Media liaison officers will need to be informed of the incident. They will be able to assist by handling media inquiries. The media liaison officer will liaise with the PEO regarding the situation.

Channel all media inquiries through one person

The PEO will liaise directly with the media as more details are known.

Relate to journalists in a positive and friendly way

Enlist the support of the media to report accurate information and avoid being defensive. Journalists are professionals too. They have been assigned the job of reporting the story. They feel the public have a right to know and they will report the story with or without the ACIC’s co-operation. In a major disaster, the media is an essential means of communicating information, e.g. providing hot-line phone numbers, etc.

Working with the media representatives as professionals and providing them with accurate information about the incident means staying in control. Cooperation can make the difference between inaccurate reporting resulting in a story that reflects negatively on the college or the department and one which shows our caring role and our ability to respond effectively in a crisis.

Emphasis should be placed- in media comment- on the support available to students and staff.

Determine what the official response will be

The Marketing Department may be able to provide advice to staff about other developments or broader issues that may need to be considered when framing the response. They may also be able to offer advice about the most effective methods of responding to newspaper, radio and television interviews.

EXPRESS CONCERN. RESTRICT ANSWERS TO FACTS. ACCENTUATE THE POSITIVE.

It is appropriate, for example, to:

State the facts about what has occurred and what is being done.

For example: when and where it occurred, how many people were involved or hurt, how much damage has been done, etc.

Describe the assistance being provided for students and staff that may have been traumatised.

Explain that the whole ACIC has been deeply shocked, that all available resources and support services have been gathered and what steps are being taken to rectify the situation and get things back to normal as soon as possible.

It is imperative to avoid making comments which imply blame or fault for any part of the incident, as there could be significant legal implications.

Official inquiries – e.g. by the police - are likely to follow serious incidents. Media comments on the public record may have a bearing on proceedings at such inquiries.

APPENDIX D

POLICE INVOLVEMENT

While critical incidents are not only cases of sudden unexpected death, the police and others must be contacted.

The police are required to investigate all cases of sudden unexpected death. Police actions include:

- Reporting such death to the Coroner
- Notifying next of kin
- Obtaining official identification of the deceased (this must be done by someone who has known the deceased for some time)
- Conducting investigations on behalf of the Coroner - for example, interviewing witnesses and others who may have been involved, collecting clothing and other items for use in evidence, delivering specimens for analysis.

Coronial Investigations

Every death reported to the Coroner must be investigated. The body of the deceased will be taken to the morgue where it may be viewed by the relatives but not touched. Once the coronial inquiries are complete (and this may take some time), the body will be released to funeral CEOs to await instruction from the next of kin. At this stage the body may be touched.

Post Mortems (autopsies)

Most reported deaths require a post mortem examination to determine the medical cause of death. This usually involves an internal and external examination of the body, and of tissue, organ and blood specimens taken from the body. Cultural and religious objections to a post mortem may be discussed with the coroner or a court social worker. However, these objections very rarely influence the coroner's decision to conduct an autopsy.

Inquests

An inquest is a public hearing before a coroner (and occasionally a jury) to decide the circumstances of death. Once initial investigations are completed, the Coroner may (as in 90% of cases) dispense with an inquest. However, the Coroner may order an inquest or, in certain circumstances (such as murder), an inquest may be legally required.

PREPARING FOR FUNERALS

This information is taken from materials published by the Australian Funeral CEOs Association. A variety of reading material is available. Inquiries may be directed to:

Arranging a funeral

When faced with having to make funeral arrangements, most people have no prior experience in organizing such an event, and little idea of what to do. Initial interviews with the funeral CEO can be at a location nominated by you. While some people may have a fairly clear knowledge of the arrangements they want to make, others may want to consider a myriad of alternatives before making any decisions. The funeral CEO is there to guide and advise on the many matters which need to be considered.

Decisions to make will include:

- Time and location of the funeral
- Type of service
- Burial/cremation (reflection of the religious or ethnic attitudes and family traditions)
- Type of coffin
- Viewing arrangements
- Choice of participants
- Floral arrangements, motor vehicles and other relevant matters

The funeral CEO

The funeral CEO will take responsibility for arranging, with the family concerned, the time and place for an appropriate funeral service by coordinating and liaising with clergy members, doctors, hospitals and cemetery or crematorium officials.

The funeral CEO will lodge notices in the press, arrange floral tributes, provide a hearse and other vehicles, a funeral chapel and any other facilities and personnel required to carry out the wishes of the family being served.

All official forms must be completed and taken to the appropriate people at the right time. The funeral CEO, for example, registers the death with the Registrar of Births, Deaths and Marriages.

The funeral CEO ensures that human dignity both of the deceased and the survivors is preserved and performs tasks in a sensitive and understanding manner.

Kindness, helpfulness, understanding and the empathetic handling of funeral arrangements are the vital psychological components of the funeral CEO's role.

When someone dies

When death occurs, the first practical consideration in most cases will be the need for a doctor's attendance. In Australia today, relatively few people die at home and in most cases the medical necessities and formalities will be taken care of by the relevant hospital or other authorities.

The deceased's doctor or the hospital authorities will explain what steps, if any, are required to establish the cause of death and complete the necessary death certificate. Meanwhile, the family may begin making their desired funeral arrangements, which can be completed when the death certificate has been signed.

The funeral ceremony

All reputable funeral CEOs are able to provide a broad range of services to suit the precise requirements of the bereaved family.

Funerals can be as different as the people they are for, with their main purpose being to help the bereaved in the first stages of grief.

The order, style and content of service can all be varied to suit the family's needs. A personal tribute from a family member or close friend, or perhaps including appropriate cultural traditions, may make the service more meaningful.

Special circumstances

Deaths from Suicide and AIDS may sometimes present special problems because of old religious discrimination and/or social stigma. Nevertheless, the need for people to mourn and the rituals of the funeral are still essential for friends and family.

When there is no body (e.g.: drowning accidents, abduction) it is still important to acknowledge the life of the deceased and help the family and friends to accept that death has occurred. A special memorial service to allow everyone to say goodbye and be able to get on with their grieving is essential. The use of photos, significant objects associated with the deceased's life, and perhaps candles are a great help to use in place of the body.

Grieving

Grief is not a single response, but a complicated series of feelings, emotions, and even physical manifestations of a person's reaction to the bereavement.

Grieving is an intensely personal process. Each death is unique, and everyone affected will respond differently. Most survivors, however, will pass through similar stages of grief from initial shock, numbness, and often denial and anger to realization, acceptance and finally re-adjustment.

The intensity of grief experienced will be affected by a number of factors, including the degree of attachment to the deceased and the duration and quality of relationship with them. The greater the attachment, the longer it is likely to take to resolve grief.

However, it is not the passage of time itself which brings resolution, but the working through of stages of grief. A meaningful funeral service can play a significant part in the crucial early stages of grieving.
